WEGMAN DESIGN GROUP

Pelican Marsh Clubhouse

This Master Plan design addresses the functional and aesthetic elements within this two-story space, creating strategic design solutions for this highly active golf club. The Design Team's focus was to address the membership needs which included: increased dining capacity, flexibility, support for multiple groups and private activities within dining venues, providing up-to-date audio-visual technology throughout the club, and upgrading the look and feel that reflect the club's quality, nature, and reputation for excellence.

On the main floor, a small expansion included a new lounge space, conference room, and administrative space to improve workflow. These additions provided opportunity to coordinate the exterior design by addressing new finishes and decorative lighting on the building façade. Upon entering, warm ebonized and walnut stained woods, neutral textures, and pops of rich jewel-toned accent colors, set the tone for the welcoming and energizing entry sequence of spaces. abstract artwork are inspired by the nearby marsh landscapes unique to the club setting.

The dining room was expanded in the center portion to create more dynamic space, and the room gained new life with a beamed ceiling design, added retractable acoustic partition and elegant fireplace feature. The private dining room remodel includes addition of new media wall with blackout sun shades, greater buffet storage and direct access to the refreshed Sunset Terrace thus allowing a modernized cohesive look.

Ground-floor plan changes included adding public access to the elevator, enlarged foyer, dual-access attendant space, increased locker restrooms, and expanded Men's Lounge for larger party use. Design details included media walls, accessible restrooms with generous grooming areas, and integral LED lighting and speaker system. Finishes on the ground level reflect a fresh, highly detailed but casual atmosphere which also provide a space for golfers to relax and socialize.
